

The KD Rig gets used by a lot of great anglers to catch those wary carp that feed with a little more caution and also due to the magnificent hook holds that this rig creates. The hook is whipped on at such an aggressive angle that the carp find it practically impossible to eject when sucked in. Due to the way that the hair protrudes out the back of the hook's eye, you're causing the hook point to become heavier, allowing it to drop quicker into the bottom lip unlike many rigs out there.
